Re: Review of Recommendations for Streamlining the Historic District Designation Process

Dear Chairperson Doom and Historic Preservation Commission Members:

Thanks for the opportunity to comment on the proposed process to streamline the Historic District Designation process.

One of TGHS's key goals is to increase the number of historic districts in the City of Glendale and we've previously advocated for streamlining the historic districting process.

Reviewing the proposed process submitted by Jay Platt, we enthusiastically support adoption. Not only will it remove redundant meetings and petitions, service level agreements will apply to city staff in both generation of an RFP and issuance of a final contract for the development of historic district surveys.

TGHS recommends that the Historic Preservation Commission advises that City Council approve and codify the proposal.

Sincerely,
