ALEX THEATRE REHABILITATION UNDERWAY

Many entryway details, including elements which have long been removed or covered, will be restored to their original appearance.

Still in good condition, the 68 year old gold coffered ceiling in the lobby will be restored. (Photos by S. McKay)

For all of us who have advocated and worked for the preservation of the Alex Theatre for the past five years, December was pretty exciting -- the rehabilitation of the Alex began! On December 15th the City Council approved the building permit and the Redevelopment Agency awarded the construction contract. On the 17th, the construction barricade and trailer went up, and on the 21st, the work actually began. Since then the project has proceeded speedily with the progress apparent as each week goes by. All fixtures and seats were removed and stored, the demolition phase is complete, and construction has begun.

The Glendale Historical Society was pleased to facilitate the donation of miscellaneous items, which were not considered historically significant, from the Alex to several Los Angeles-based organizations. Damaged theater curtains and screen masking were donated to "Friends of the Orpheum"; parts of the locking rail from the rigging system were donated to Metropolitan Theatres, Inc.; and the marquee letters were donated to the Los Angeles Historic Theatre Foundation. These groups were very appreciative to receive the items, which they plan to use at downtown Los Angeles theaters and for special events.

As part of the rehabilitation project, the prominent Alex marquee and tower will be restored to their 1940 glory as designed by S. Charles Lee. One of the current challenges is to identify the original colors of the neon which was removed from the tower long ago. If you have a color photograph of the Alex tower at night, please contact Peyton Hall, preservation architect at John Ash Group (213) 383-0056.

PRESERVATION ISSUES: UPDATE

Historic Preservation Element: The Historic Preservation Element of the City's General Plan, which stated the City's preservation goals and objectives and designated 33 local landmarks, has not been amended since its adoption in 1977. Preservation Planner Gerald Wasser is currently updating, expanding, and revising the document. The changes to the Element may also result in revision to the preservation ordinance which protects Glendale's landmarks. Revision of the Historic Preservation Element and the preservation ordinance will have important impacts on Glendale's cultural resources. TGHS will play an active role during the revision process to help shape these important preservation policy documents.

Goode House: Following the City's purchase of the Goode House last fall, the Department of Community Development and Housing entered into negotiations with the Crippled Children's Society (CCS) to develop the site as affordable housing for handicapped adults. Under the plan, the City will convey the property to CCS who will use Federal HUD grants and a City subsidy for the project. In October, project architect Efrain Olivares invited TGHS representatives to review preliminary plans for construction of 25 units around the Goode House which will be restored as the community center. The restoration plans are being prepared by consultant Lawrence Winans in association with architect Jai Pal Khalsa. The use of HUD funds for the project guarantees that the plans will be reviewed by the State Office of Historic Preservation for conformance with the Secretary of the Interior's Standards. We look forward to continuing to participate in the process and reviewing the final project plans.

New Redevelopment Area: The Environmental Impact Report (EIR) on the new San Fernando Road Corridor Redevelopment Project was recently certified. As a result of extensive input by TGHS, the Final EIR requires that a "windshield" survey of historic resources be conducted within one year and that a complete survey be completed within 5 years to document potentially significant cultural resources in the area. The goal of the surveys is to identify important cultural resources early enough in the process so that they can be preserved and incorporated into the development plans.

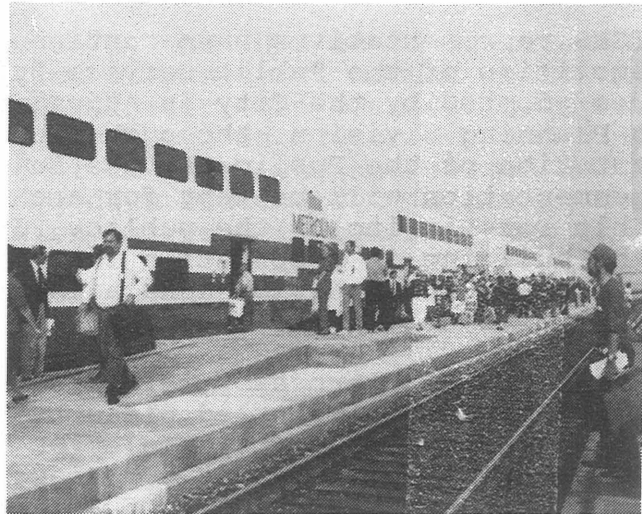

Deukmejian Wilderness Park: Restoration of the park's historic stone barn is scheduled to begin this spring, the first phase of the Master Plan adopted by City Council in 1992. The City purchased the property, a local landmark formerly known as Inter-Valley Ranch, in 1989. The restored barn will serve as a nature center to educate the public on the site's history.

Taylor House: The oldest frame house in Glendale, the Taylor House was constructed in 1873, according to City records. Originally located at Pacific and Glenwood, it was moved in the early 1900s to its current location at 1027 Glenwood Road. TGHS members recently toured the house which is currently for sale. Though overgrown and in disrepair, the foundation, floorboards, and roof of the original portion of the house appear stable, while later additions and the garage are not stable. Decorative features such as Craftsman paneling in the dining room, kitchen cabinetry, and stone porch piers, appear to have been added at the time the house was moved. At the time of designation in 1977 as a first order criteria landmark, the City recommended preservation and restoration of the Taylor House. We hope that the City and realtor will find a buyer for the property who will take advantage of the tax incentives available through the Mills Act to rehabilitate the historic home. For further information, call Verdugo Hills Realty at 818-242-6854 or Preservation Planner Gerald Wasser 818-548-2140.

GLENDALE'S METROLINK STATION: A PROUD BLENDING OF THE OLD AND NEW

What could be more American than balloons, politicians, music, and folks all gathered at the railway station in an election year? Well, we had all these, plus Glendale City officials, the Southern California Rail Authority, sponsoring businesses, and The Glendale Historical Society at the new Glendale Transit Center on October 26. On that day, celebrations were held marking the opening of three routes of the Southern California METROLINK commuter train network.

Four trains originating in Moorpark in Ventura County and three from Santa Clarita stop in Glendale each weekday morning on their way to downtown Los Angeles, and an equal number return in the evenings. The downtown L.A. terminus is the beautifully refurbished and upgraded Union Station. The METROLINK system is designed to reduce periphery-to-center commuter traffic on the freeways and, consequently, to reduce air pollution in the L.A. basin.

Judging from the enthusiastic morning sendoff of METROLINK from the Glendale Station, the system should prosper. The Glendale Bee Line and RTD have gone all-out to provide connections from train stations to business and manufacturing centers. With local politicians making opening statements, the spectators watched the trains come and go and enjoyed the festive atmosphere. Thanks to Dick Montgomery, Shannon Pedlow, and Sid Gordon, TGHS was represented on the opening day at the Transportation Center. Our line of merchandise and publications was on display, and informative answers were being provided to all who paused at our table.

As the TGHS newsletter reported (Vol. 11, No. 1, 1990), Glendale's venerable train station has stood the test of time and the many changes in commuter traffic in Southern California. The Spanish Colonial Revival style building has been in continuous use since its construction as a Southern Pacific Depot in 1923. It was indeed a thrill to see our handsome, neat, and tidy station still present to help usher in yet another chapter in public transit. The City of Glendale, which now owns and operates the station and which is undertaking its historic restoration, is to be congratulated for helping so effectively in this new regional endeavor. We are proud to have been present to help in the launching!

DEMOLITION OF PUBLIC SERVICE BUILDING UNDERWAY

TGHS representatives have continued to monitor the process preceding the demolition of the Public Service Building to insure that the mitigation measures adopted by the City in August are carried out. According to the City's Planning Division, thorough photographic and videographic documentation of the Public Service Building was completed in November. The documentation will be kept for archival purposes by the City and is available for viewing by the public. In December, asbestos was removed from the building in preparation for demolition. The distinctive exterior light fixtures and interior handrails, fixtures, and marble were also removed from the building and were placed in City storage for future use.

The demolition process, which began on January 13, will be slow, with the building being dismantled piece by piece, one floor at a time. Demolition is scheduled for completion in March, when construction of the replacement plaza will begin. The basement of the Public Service Building will remain under the plaza for functional uses related to civic center.

TGHS TO PARTICIPATE IN DOWNTOWN STREET FESTIVAL

Glendale's upcoming street festival, "GlenFest '93" will be a three-day celebration in downtown Glendale featuring fun, food, and family entertainment. The event will be held Friday through Sunday, May 14-16 on a specially decorated section of Brand Boulevard and will include live music, puppet shows, restaurant and merchant booths, and children's entertainment at the Exchange. "GlenFest '93" is being presented by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the City of Glendale and community sponsors, including TGHS.

TGHS will participate by selling tickets and scrip for the event; as a nonprofit organization, we will receive back 25% of our total sales. We encourage TGHS members to attend this exciting festival and to purchase tickets from a TGHS representative. One-day passes are $5 for adults and $3 for children; a three-day pass is $20, and includes a coupon for $15 worth of food and beverage scrip. Tickets for top-talent concerts may also be purchased from TGHS for between $20 and $30. If you are interested in helping TGHS sell tickets or would like to buy tickets to benefit TGHS, please call (818) 242-7447.

CITY CONDUCTING ORAL HISTORY PROGRAM

The City of Glendale Planning Division's oral history program was launched at an orientation and training session on November 7. The program will involve conducting tape recorded interviews of individuals who have a unique knowledge of Glendale history. The tapes and their written transcriptions will be used for a variety of purposes in the future, including placement in the City's library. Anyone interested in volunteering as an interviewer or interviewee should contact Gerald Wasser, the City's Preservation Planner at (818) 548-2140.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Several appointments have been made by the TGHS Board of Directors since our last newsletter. The position of Assistant Docent Coordinator, who assists and succeeds the Docent Coordinator, has been filled by Karen MacDonald. Vi Long has been appointed to serve as Historian, and will keep the TGHS scrapbooks. Vi will replace Alice Rice, who has served as Historian for two years and is stepping down because she is moving away. We thank Alice for all her work and wish her well in her new home in New Mexico.

We are looking for a volunteer to serve as Program Chair in the coming year. The Program Chair plans the educational programs for our monthly General Membership meetings. Though the term of the position would not begin until September 1, we hope to find the volunteer this spring or summer so he or she will have time to plan the fall programs. If you are interested in serving as Program Chair, please call (818) 242-7447.

WELCOME TO NEW DOCTORS' HOUSE DOCENTS

We are pleased and proud to welcome six new members to our Doctors' House Docent Guild. These new docents have recently completed their training class, conducted by Isabelle Meyer, and are now giving tours to Doctors' House visitors. They are Raffelle Ricci, Marian Simpson, Dolly Dittler, Sara VanderHelm, Emily Wargo, and Christine Ziegler.

Marian has been a Glendale resident for fifty years, coming from New Jersey during World War II to work at Lockheed. For 24 years she was employed by the City of Glendale working in several divisions. In mid-life she earned a Master's degree in English at California State University L.A., then taught there part time for several years. She is an active volunteer at Holy Family Church in Glendale, and last year received a Papal Honor for her service to the Church.

Sara, who recently moved with her family from Sacramento to Glendale, is a junior at Providence High School in Burbank. She lives near The Doctors' House, and decided to become a docent because she is interested in history and thought it would be fun to educate others on that subject. She signed up with her friend and classmate Emily Wargo and reports that she is finding her new hobby to be very pleasant. Sara also plays the piano and harp, and was on her school's cross country team.

Dolly came to live in Glendale last summer when her husband Bill took up his position of Deputy Synod Executive for the Presbyterian Church in Southern California and Hawaii. Before coming here they resided and raised their three children in Riverside while Bill served in the ministry. Dolly worked several years in an art gallery and did much volunteer and creative work in her church and community. She is continuing this in Glendale, with her work as a docent enabling her to contribute to and become a part of the community. Since her roots are deep in California and she is interested in the Victorian way of life, she finds being a docent very satisfying.

Our organization and visitors to The Doctors' House are fortunate to have such talented and generous people as docents. Watch our next newsletter for introductions to Raffelle, Emily, and Christine.

Spotlight on Service:

Doris McKently

Doris McKently, born and raised in the Silverlake area, attended Marshall High and earned a BA in Art and Education from Occidental College. She taught briefly at John Muir School in Glendale and then took a seven month tour of South America before returning to teaching. In 1951 Doris and her husband Melvin built a house on a section of her family's property in the Verdugo Woodlands, which included the historic Verdugo Adobe and the Oak of Peace. Long interested in history, Doris researched the property and gave many enthusiastic tours of the Adobe which her family was carefully tending.

After teaching at Montrose Elementary School for ten years, Doris took a break to raise her three children and then taught at R.D. White for 20 years. Doris and Melvin joined TGHS in the early 1980s and helped with fundraising efforts for the restoration of The Doctors' House. They also served as docents for TGHS tours of Tropico, the Masonic Temple, and stone houses. Doris has been a Doctors' House docent since 1989, leads weekday tours for local school groups, and has trained new docents. She contributes to many TGHS events by playing the piano and attends public hearings on important preservation issues. As an usher for the Alex Extravaganza, Doris accompanied Bob Hope onto the Alex Theatre stage.

Doris's contribution to the appreciation of local history goes beyond her work with TGHS. She gives presentations on local history to elementary school students, has given teacher training on local history, and recently assisted with the development of a 3rd grade local history curriculum for the Glendale schools. Doris also volunteers at R.D. White, serves on the City's Beautification Advisory Council, and is active in PEO, an educational philanthropic organization. Doris has many hobbies, including gardening, sketching, writing children's stories, and travel.

Doris brings energy and enthusiasm to everything she does, and TGHS is very fortunate to have her as an active member. We appreciate her meaningful contributions to TGHS and to Glendale in promoting the celebration and appreciation of local history.

ANTIQUÉ INFANTS' CLOTHING ON DISPLAY

The new Doctors' House historic exhibit will feature babies' clothing, such as vintage Christening gowns. The opening reception for the new display will be held Sunday, March 7 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Refreshments will be served. The display will continue through April. Come visit this display of charming little outfits from days gone by!

BOUTIQUE OPENS HOLIDAY SEASON AT DOCTORS' HOUSE

The Glendale Historical Society and its Docent Guild held their second annual boutique and opened the traditional Victorian Christmas display on December 6. Visitors were treated to the delights of the authentically decorated house, refreshments, holiday music, and the opportunity to purchase handmade crafts, Christmas decorations, antique linens, and homebaked goods.

Due to the threat of rain, the sales tables were set up indoors. The intimacy of the house, the uniqueness of holiday music, and the visitors moving leisurely in and out of the rooms created a festive atmosphere that seemed right out of the holiday scenes in A Christmas Carol. Outside, vintage cars were displayed. The event was not only fun, but it was a successful fundraiser. Sales from linens and other Acquisitions Committee items totalled $150 and will go to the acquisitions fund and sales from Historical Society merchandise and boutique items totaled over $400.

Many people worked to make the event successful, including Merry Franzen, Lorraine Zabaro, Leslie Thornhill, Andrea Humberger, Wheeler Doll, Bill Shepherd, Sid Gordon, Shannon Pedlow, Jim Constantian, Lenore Hatem, Jean Kohler, Faye Williams, Vi Long, Lorrayne Forstall, Doyle Kutch, the team of docents, and TGHS members who donated items. Special thanks to Frances Doll, who chaired the fund raiser; Karen MacDonald, who decorated the house beautifully; Doris McKently, who played lively carols on our 1877 piano; and Ether Shearer, who attractively arranged the sales displays.

GUIDE TO HISTORIC OUTINGS NOW AVAILABLE AT DOCTORS' HOUSE

A Guide to Historical Outings in Southern California by Dr. Gloria Ricci Lothrop is now available for purchase at The Doctors' House. The new book describes hundreds of cultural and historic celebrations, museums and tours, and provides locations and contact telephone numbers. Information is easily accessed in the 144-page guide through indexing and cross-indexing under three divisions: geographic area, topics (interested in ethnic history/landmarks? antiques? the old West?), and holiday celebrations. Familiar sightseeing spots such as Little Tokyo and the J. Paul Getty Museum are included, as are a large number of lesser-known local treasures. We are pleased to offer this book as one of our many merchandise items promoting the understanding and enjoyment of local history. It can be purchased at The Doctors' House for $8.

DOCTORS' HOUSE NOTECARDS AND POSTCARDS

Have you or your out-of-town guests ever noticed how few souvenir items are available as mementos of our city's attractions? The Glendale Historical Society has two very special ones, each depicting The Doctors' House. Double-folded notecards illustrated with a line drawing of the house come in packets of four, and can be purchased for $2 per packet. Beautiful large color postcards of the house are 35 cents each or three for $1. Both notecards and postcards are sold at The Doctors' House every Sunday when the house is open, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

HOUSE BRILLIANT TEAM BEAUTIFIES DOCTORS' HOUSE

In preparation for the Victorian Christmas Boutique and holiday season the December 5 House Brilliant Team volunteers did a beautiful job, as always, making The Doctors' House sparkle. Many thanks to Team members Robert Seiden, Gerald Behoteguy, Bob Newcomb, Helen Wrede, Denise Tari, Merry Franzen, and Team leader Leslie Thornhill. Special thanks to the men, who washed windows, cleaned out-of-the-way places, polished wood, and climbed ladders to wash transom windows.

The Christmas tree was decorated by Leslie Thornhill, Gerald Behoteguy, Nicholas Roberts, and Jonathan MacDonald. Nicholas, age 11, is a former student of Leslie, and Jonathan, age 12, is the son of Assistant Docent Coordinator Karen MacDonald.

Cleaning and decorating The Doctors' House, says Leslie, is a very special activity. While in the house without guests, volunteers can relax and enjoy the beauty and history of the rooms. "We become very familiar with the house and its objects -- the more we are there, the more we can see and appreciate. It really is like being a time traveller to the last century."

To find out about helping on the House Brilliant Team, phone Leslie Thornhill at 818-846-0247.

TGHS CELEBRATES THE HOLIDAYS

The annual TGHS holiday party was held on December 13 in the Education Building of the historic First United Methodist Church. Partygoers enjoyed fine food and great company in the attractive Builders Room, which we obtained through the efforts of Jean Kohler. A big thank you goes to Margaret Hammond and Bill Shepherd for organizing the event. Special appreciation also goes to Fred Hammond and Sid Gordon, who helped set up the party room, the background music, and the decorations. Thanks to all members for their delicious potluck contributions, and finally to Doris McKently for playing the piano and leading us all in a spirited rendition of Christmas carols.

TGHS JOINS DAYS OF VERDUGOS FESTIVITIES

The card tables came out of Dick Montgomery's garage, the local Jaycees allocated the space which we could use, the blue and white canopy went up, and the poles with the TGHS banner and the Stars and Stripes were raised to complete our booth in Verdugo Park. All this was in preparation for our participation in Glendale's traditional Days of Verdugos Carnival October 17 and 18 in Verdugo Park. We were adjacent to Baked Goods Galore, near the Bahai tent, and down the aisle from the Glendale Humane Society, baseball cards, and healing stones. While we staffed our display of literature, maps, and books, a stage and hay bales provided a setting for Middle Eastern and Latin American dancing. It was truly a community affair.

The TGHS representatives through the weekend were Dick Montgomery, Helen Wrede, Andrea Humberger, Bob Newcomb, Dan Cabrera, Wally Forstall, George Knutsen, Sid Gordon, Denise Tari, and Shannon Pedlow. Our sales totalled a respectable $196, and our location near the carnival rides provided high visibility for our organization. We were able to extend a friendly greeting to all who passed by, and to provide a broad variety of materials about the history of our city and the work of our organization. Many thanks to all who helped represent us.

GLENDALE COMMUNITY FOUNDATION OFFERS GRANT FOR EQUIPMENT

We are pleased to announce that The Glendale Historical Society will receive $500 as a matching grant from the Glendale Community Foundation to purchase a laser printer for use with our computer. The grant is contingent upon our ability to raise matching funds of $500. The Community Foundation is a publicly-supported charitable endowment which makes grants to local nonprofit groups. We appreciate this grant from them and thank Executive Director Tom Miller for facilitating the grant request process.

Each TGHS member is urged to donate $5 to help us match the $500 and purchase a laser printer for use in the production of our quarterly newsletter, meeting flyers, and educational materials on local heritage issues. Please send donations to TGHS, P.O. Box 4173, Glendale 91202.
